

Personal Interview:

In one of the lab, we discussed personal interviews. Sir played the role of interviewer and asked us real-life HR questions like:

“Where do you see yourself in five years?”

“Why should we hire you?”

“How are you better than others?”

For the five-year question, Sir suggested giving an honest but smart answer like: “Rather than predicting five years, I’m focused on growing with your company in the next two — learning, contributing, and aiming for a responsible position.” Sir called this giving a "cheesy but professional" line.

Finally, we conducted mock interviews with our classmates. I interviewed a friend and later shared feedback with sir — whether I would qualify him for the job based on his answers, confidence, and structure.

This session really helped us build our confidence for real interviews and showed how we can use simple frameworks to give powerful answers.
